The Economic Leadership Council is a select group of philanthropic women business leaders – a peer group of C-level executives – who are aligned with our goals to advance women’s economic security and women’s leadership. Members are advocates for economic equality and leadership opportunities for women, knowing that greater diversity of leadership drives better performance in literally every sector. Being architects of the new Women’s Leadership Institute, members are impacting the next level of women executives in their companies, industries and cross-sector.
